16 INJURED IN LONDON BLAST, ONE FATALLY

Explosion Blamed By Police On Illegal Irish Republican Army

ROAR CAUSES PANIC

Follows Hoare's Dramatic House Recital Of Terroristic 'Plans'

LONDON, July 26.—(AP)—Sixteen persons were hurt, one fatally, when an explosion blamed by police on the illegal Irish Republican army, shattered the baggage room of one of London's most crowded railway stations today.

Donald Campbell died several hours later from injuries.

The blast, which followed by two days Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare's dramatic recital of the terroristic plans in the house of commons, set off a lunch-time panic in the King's Cross station of the London and North-eastern railroad.

Broken glass and litter were blown over an area nearly 40 yards square. A checkroom attendant's hands were mangled. Three customers, two of them women, and two other employes felt the full force of the blast.

Scores of checked suitcases and parcels were torn apart and their contents scattered.

DENSE WOODS SEARCHED FOR BOY AND MAN

Grave Fears Felt For Child After Party Fails To Find Lad

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 26.—(AP)—Dense northwest woods were searched today for two missing persons, one a six-year-old boy, Russell Jensen, and the other F. C. Lambert, 53, Chicago fisherman.

Grave fears for the safety of the child mounted after a huge searching party of some 500 people failed to find fresh tracks of the child at nightfall Tuesday, nearly 48 hours after he disappeared from the shores of Lake Kabekona near Laporte, 175 miles northwest of here.

First word of Lambert's disappearance was brought to a camp on Lake Mantou, 50 miles north of the Canadian border town of International Falls, Minn., by D. K. McMillen, also of Chicago, last Sunday. He said they became separated while returning to camp from a fishing trip.

Whether the Jensen child [illegible] survive two nights in the Paul Bunyan forest, where he was lost, without food and possibly water and what little rest he could get disturbed by hordes of mosquitoes and vicious biting deer flies was problematical. One bloodhound which picked up his trail ran into a hornet's nest and was stung so seriously he had to be taken back to a searcher's camp.

Besides the insects, the forest is roamed by bears and a chance encounter with one was a possibility that urged sheriff's deputies, 200 CCC enrollees, forest officials and citizens on to desperate efforts. The boy was

8 PERSONS TRAPPED IN BLAZING HOTEL

LINDEN, Tex., July 26.—(AP)—Eight persons, trapped on the third floor, leaped from the flaming New George hotel early today, and one was killed.

The fire broke out in a linen room and spread quickly to the head on a stairway, blocking the exit to a fire escape.

L. E. Lummus, of Paris, Tex., a traveling salesman, was killed in his plunge from a window.

Seven other persons, including a woman, leaped, but most of them broke the fall by jumping to nearby smaller structures.

Mrs. J. L. Trammel, wife of the operator of the hotel cafe, suffered a back injury.

B. F. Fant, owner of the hotel, struck a one-story building and rolled off to the ground. Fant possibly could have escaped injury, but he hurried about the floor, waking customers in preference to vacating the building.

FEDERAL COURT REJECTS CLAIM OF GOVERNMENT

Justice Proctor Rules Physicians Not Engaged In 'Trade'

MATTER OF ETHICS

Defendants Claim They're Merely Upholding Standards Of Practice

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—The American Medical association won a sweeping victory over the government today when a federal district court held that the Sherman anti-trust act could not apply to the practice of medicine.

Justice James M. Proctor, ruling out an indictment in which the justice department charged the A. M. A. and fellow defendants restrained the "trade" of Group Health, Inc., a co-operative health association in the District of Columbia, said:

"Is medical practice a trade within the meaning of section three of the Sherman act? In my opinion, it is not."

Justice department officials, while not commenting at once, indicated an appeal would be asked. The final decision will be up to Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson, now on vacation.

Justice Proctor agreed with demurrers filed by defense counsel, which argued that medicine was a learned profession rather than a trade. He said he thought the legal concept of the word "trade" had long been settled by the supreme court in a decision "expressly excepting the learned professions."

The technical action was the sustaining of demurrers to the indictment which the justice department obtained in Washington seven months ago against four medical bodies and 21 individual doctors.

Justice Proctor remarked at one point that the indictment as drawn "smacks of a 'highly colored argumentative discourse'" and at another point he said it was "afflicted with vague and uncertain statements."

In some instances, he added, material facts were entirely lacking.

The opinion said:

"The government has cited many English and American cases dealing with restrictive covenants ancillary to agreements by doctors concerning the

JAPS PREPARE AGAINST RUSSIA

Nipponese Confident British Action To Ease Course In China

Japan, confident that her new agreement with Great Britain had smothered her course in Asia on one front, apparently turned to the problem of Soviet Russia today with the calling of 1,500 naval reservists to active duty and organization of a new naval squadron.

Neutral observers believed these fleet-strengthening moves were a result of friction between Japan and Russia over Sakhalin island, commercially valuable territory north of the Japanese islands. Japan owns the southern half, Russia the northern.

Naval Minister Admiral Yonai announced organization of the new squadron but did not disclose its size of character. The move was linked by observers with a naval spokesman's statement last Friday that a portion of the fleet was being assembled in northern waters for naval games because of the "extremely serious" situation arising from the Sakhalin dispute.

Official Japan and official China took opposite views of the significance of Britain's new pledge to Tokyo not to stand in the way of the Japanese army in the areas under its control in China. A Japanese foreign office spokesman, asked what Japan would do in case of continued British help to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, replied "We certainly do not expect any such assistance will be given." But in Chungking, Chiang's capital, the government issued a formal statement expressing confidence Britain's policy to-

BATES CLAIMS SOUTH GETTING UNFAIR SHARE

Contends North's Industrial States Burdened Too Heavily

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Representative Bates, Republican, Massachusetts, said today one of the main functions of government under the present administration "is the redistribution of income."

"Under the New Deal we have had a tremendous wave of expenditure of public money in many states at the expense of impoverishing others," he said.

Bates contended that under the relief program and various power projects the government's "redistribution of income, based on political pressure and not the national advantage," was "draining off the wealth of the more productive states of the north and west in favor of the south and some western states."

Declaring industrial states were "carrying the tax burden," Bates said some states failed to tax their own people to meet relief and educational needs.

During 1933 and 1934, he added, the federal government paid 65 per cent of the total relief costs "but in some states in the south, state and local

Judge Garrett Decides Charges Made By Noe Merit Probe

A special session of the Ouachita parish grand jury was called by Judge David I. Garrett this morning to meet Monday to investigate alleged irregularities at Louisiana Training institute.

Judge Garrett explained that the grand jury would "take up any matters brought before it" but his action was the result of charges that property at the training school had been "unlawfully converted to private use." The jury will convene at 10 a.m. Monday.

Judge Garrett said he conferred with Judge J. T. Shell also of the Fourth judicial district, and the two decided that the charges, made in a letter from State Senator James A. Noe, a candidate for governor, should be investigated.

"These are serious charges," Judge Garrett said, "and we want to investigate them before the witnesses get out of pocket."

Members of the grand jury are:

C. C. Boardman, foreman; Sam Gunn, M. M. Underwood, W. A. Calloway, L. W. McDonald, M. Willett, C. C. Bell, Jr., P. W. Burdeaux, J. E. Bryan, Douglas Coon, J. E. Rutledge, and T. T. Jones.

There probably will be numerous witnesses called to testify before the grand jury but their names will not be made public until after the investigation. Senator Noe, of course, as well as members of the Louisiana Training institute board of commissioners undoubtedly will be heard, in

Unfailing Courage Saves Boy Lost For Eight Days

SHERMAN, Me., July 26.—(AP)—Refreshed from an unbroken night's sleep and apparently making rapid recovery, Donn Fendler, 12, whose amazing trek for eight days through Maine wilderness after he had become lost on Mt. Katahdin brought him to habitation and safety yesterday, awakened today feeling "fine."

His first act was to call for "Uncle Nels," the affectionate name he has given Nelson E. McMoarn, camp owner, who found the lad yesterday when he responded to cries for help which floated across the east branch of the Penobscot river to him at the landing of his Stacyville camps.

With McMoarn and Dr. Ernest T. Young, Millinocket physician, at his bedside, the Rye, N. Y., lad looked around and said, "Gee, this is a swell place." Each night during his fight for life in the woods he had slept in the open.

While the lad consumed a breakfast of toast and eggs, McMoarn, Dr. Young and others discussed plans for his removal to Bangor, where his father is a patient in a hospital, suffering from an eye injury suffered in the mountain search for his son.

An amazing tale of tenacious courage spilled from the lips of the tired boy when he fell exhausted into the arms of McMoarn yesterday.

While an army of searchers scoured the steep, crevasse-scarred sides of lofty Mount Katahdin, Donn, a Boy Scout, wandered 35 miles from the peak on which he disappeared July 17, followed a brook and then a telephone line until finally he came last night to the first human habitation, the home of McMoarn.

"I ate what berries I could find," Donn told McMoarn as Mrs. McMoarn gave the haggard, emaciated lad soup and coffee before sending him to bed. "I drank water from stagnant pools until I found fresh water."

He was all but naked, his clothing torn off by the tangled growths through which he had plowed relentlessly for days, and his body was cov-

VELMA WEST'S FREEDOM ENDS WITH CAPTURE

Hammer Murderer Of Husband Arrested In Dallas After 36 Days

TO RETURN TO OHIO

Woman Says Hope Of Gaining Clemency Long Ago Abandoned

DALLAS, July 26.—(AP)—Velma West's "one little adventure" after 11 years' imprisonment for the hammer murder of her husband ended abruptly here with her unspectacular arrest on a city street.

The emaciated blonde's adventure had extended 36 days—36 days of freedom from the Ohio Women's reformatory from which she led three other prisoners in a bold escape one rainy night in June.

Velma and Mary Ellen Richards, another of the Ohio fugitives, were arrested quietly in the market section last night, not far from where they had worked in a tavern. Detectives C. O. Buchanan, J. E. Daniel and Ben Samford walked up to the women and took them off to jail. The detectives had had information the fugitives were here.

They did not elaborate on their information, but Velma told a reporter the officers related someone had recognized her from newspaper pictures.

The capture ended a nation-wide search for the quartet who vanished into the rainy night of June 19. Velma said they used a set of keys to open the gates but did not say how they were obtained. The women decided to hitch-hike to Dallas but Florence Sheline quit en route.

The others came here three weeks ago but the captured pair said Virginia Brawdy had left them since.

Eleven years of prison life has taken their toll on the West woman. She now is frail. No longer the vi-

KIDNAP VICTIM RESTING AFTER TRYING ORDEAL

Rev. Gerould Goldner Able To Get First Real Sleep In Week

JERUSALEM, July 26.—(AP)—After a fitful sleep—his first rest in a real bed for a week—the Rev. Gerould Goldner today gave police a detailed description of his Arab kidnapers and told friends how he tried in vain to escape.

Dr. Jacob Goldner, father of the young Ohio preacher, obtained his son's release yesterday for "somewhere between £200 and £500"—between $1,300 and $2,300—paid directly to the Arab band and not through intermediaries.

"Throughout the kidnaping I made plans to escape from the gangsters," Goldner said. "One night I concealed stones and a hat in bed as a preparation for slipping away."

The hat and the form of the stones under the covers of his make-shift bed were intended to deceive his captors, permitting Goldner to slip away.

"But the gang leader found out and doubled the guard," he recounted. "He posted two men at my side incessantly."

The most heartening moment during his captivity was when he was given a note from his father, delivered to the roving band by a Bedouin intermediary.

"Father also enclosed three letters from my wife which gave me renewed energy," Goldner said.

"But always when I thought of my predicament I tried to put my wife out of my mind because it caused

BOND OF $5,000 IS MADE BY KILPATRICK

A. K. Kilpatrick, indicted at Baton Rouge yesterday, this morning made surety bond in the amount of $5,000 at Baton Rouge, Sheriff Milton Coverdale announced.

Mr. Kilpatrick was said to have made bond here Tuesday night, but Sheriff Coverdale early this morning said the bond had not been made, although he had been advised that arrangements were being made to provide bond here. Deputy Sheriff Webber of East Baton Rouge parish telephoned Mr. Coverdale at noon that surety bond had been provided there. The warrant for Mr. Kilpatrick's arrest was received by Sheriff Coverdale this morning.

Mr. Kilpatrick went to Baton Rouge last night.

LONG PLANS TO OUST ALL WHO SERVE MAMMON

BATON ROUGE, La., July 26.—(AP)—Governor Earl K. Long in a formal statement today said "I am determined to remove from the seat of authority every man who in any degree undertakes to serve Mammon rather than God."

"I am determined," he asserted, "that no person, firm, contractor, corporation or co-partnership shall ever again be permitted to monopolize the state business or any branch of the state business. In other words, I propose to make wrongdoing in Louisiana an unprofitable enterprise from this day on."

Without explaining his statement or giving reporters a chance to question him, Governor Long left for Natchitoches, where tonight he will deliver the summer graduation address at Louisiana State Normal college.

"I believe," the governor said, "that I have the right at least, to hope that those inspired neither by a desire for

'MYSTERY' MAN TO TESTIFY IN BRIDGES CASE

One Witness Blames Communist Party For $40,000 Holdup

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—(AP)—A "mystery" witness was called by the government today in the deportation hearing of Harry Bridges, Australian-born labor leader.

The prosecution asked that defense attorneys postpone continued cross-examination of Merriel R. Bacon, Portland, Ore., policeman who has testified he joined the Communist party as a secret police agent, so that a new witness, whom the prosecution did not identify, might be immediately heard.

That the testimony of this new witness was considered of major importance was seen in the indication that he would occupy the stand throughout today's session on Angel island.

Bridges, west coast C. I. O. director and president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union, was not present at yesterday's session, the first he had missed since proceedings opened July 10. His attorneys said he was busy with other matters and was "not feeling well."

The prosecution contends Bridges is deportable because of membership in an organization advocating violent overthrow of the United States government. Bridges has denied that he is or ever was a member of the Communist party.

Bacon, who said he was detailed by Portland Police Chief Leon V. Jenkins in 1930 to join the Communist party as a secret police agent, testi-

HARRIS PLANS REGULAR AUDITS

Says Athletic Departments And Bookstores To Be Examined

BATON ROUGE, La., July 26.—(AP)—State Superintendent of Education T. H. Harris announced that periodic audits would be made at athletic departments and bookstores at colleges under the board's supervision.

The suggestion that the audits be made was proposed by Parish Fuller, a member of the state board of education, at a board meeting and Superintendent Harris, although saying there was no evidence that audits were required, agreed they should be made in the future as a precaution.

The state board reemployed Lether E. Frazar as president of Southern Louisiana institute and E. L. Richardson as president of Louisiana Polytechnic institute.

Frazar served six days as chairman of the Louisiana highway commission, resigning yesterday, and Richardson served a day as president of Louisiana State university. Both men ultimately decided to retain their old positions.

The board authorized a survey of utility rates with a view of obtaining

MORE MEN INDICTED

L. P. Abernathy And A. K. Kilpatrick Billed By Grand Jury

BATON ROUGE, La., July 26.—(AP)—Governor Earl K. Long extended the olive branch today to a political opponent as he sought to hold intact the old regime of his brother Huey, disintegrating as more political figures are drawn into the current investigations.

Indicted yesterday by the Baton Rouge parish grand jury were L. P. Abernathy, who resigned recently both as chairman of the state highway commission and as a member of the Louisiana State university board of supervisors; A. K. Kilpatrick, one of the owners of the Standard Office Supply company, of Monroe, and Dr. James M. Smith, former president of L. S. U.

Ten indictments against Abernathy and Kilpatrick charged they profited illegally by the sale of $39,922.14 in equipment to L. S. U. and its Northeast Junior college in Monroe by the Standard Office Supply company, in which Abernathy and Kilpatrick held substantial interests.

Dr. Smith, now under a total of two score state and federal charges and still in jail under bonds totaling $219,500, was indicted for obtaining $100,000 from a Baton Rouge bank allegedly by misusing his authority as a public officer.

Amid these developments, Long, a candidate for governor in January, offered to end a current "war of statements" with State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell, also a candidate for governor.

Long expressed hope Tugwell would join in desisting from a squabble over their alleged respective receipts from political contributions of state employes. The governor urged Tugwell to bring criticism and sug-

CONSTRUCTION AT L. S. U. TO BE ENDED SOON

Middleton Announces All Building Employes Will Be Eliminated

BATON ROUGE, La., July 26.—(AP)—Acting Vice-President and Comptroller Troy H. Middleton said today that the board of supervisors instructed him to eliminate entirely all construction crews on the campus of Louisiana State university as quickly as possible.

"Our building program will be completed with the construction now being finished," he explained. "We will discharge workers until we have only a necessary maintenance force. We should have the matter settled within three or four weeks."

During the past eight years federal aid has enabled L. S. U. to construct $13,500,000 in new buildings and campus improvements. A commerce building, geology hall and faculty clubhouse were completed this month.

Colonel Middleton said newspaper accounts distorted the circumstances surrounding the firing of Hick Batts, L. S. U. truck driver this week.

"Batts wasn't the onl yone fired," he said. "There were others. And he won't be the last one to go. I don't know exactly how many will be discharged, but there will be quite a number. We will cut out all construction and even all landscaping work."

Batts said he was discharged because he signed affidavits describing

BOND OF $15,000 POSTED BY HART

NEW ORLEANS, July 26.—(AP)—Bond of $15,000 was posted today by Monte E. Hart on two charges of embezzlement filed against him in criminal district court here yesterday in connection with alleged fake deals involving L. S. U. funds and the Bienville hotel sale.

Hart, president of the Hart Enterprise Electrical company, was one of five men charged. Hart and Dr. James M. Smith, resigned president of L. S. U., were accused on two bills of information.

A capias was served on Dr. Smith in the federal jail here where he is held awaiting arraignment on a mail fraud charge.

Two others, Seymour Weiss, former president of the dock board and Louis C. LeSage, suspended official of the Standard Oil company of Louisiana, made bond of $10,000 each yesterday on one count.

Another capias was sent to Baton Rouge for service on J. Emory Adams, chain store official, similarly charged

"Corporal of the Guard, Post Number One!"

A single shot. Then silence.

I began to run, and Elizabeth after me. I did not know I was crying until things began to swim in front of me. As we turned into the road to the gate I could see the dark bulk of cars and moving figures, but I could distinguish none of them.

I stopped, found a handkerchief in my dress pocket and mopped my eyes. Elizabeth had passed me. I saw Adam just outside the gate, wrenching open the door of Elizabeth's car—what had once been Elizabeth's car, now a crumpled toy listing against a tree by the side of the highway. Colonel Wright was with him, and the two sentries. I did not see Charlie.

Then from the little knot Annie detached herself, ran to Elizabeth and wound her arms around her in a gesture both restraining and cherishing.

"Don't look!" she was saying passionately as I came up with them. "He's dead—put a bullet through his head. I seen him make off in the little car and I did my best to catch him. But there—I'm no driver. Ah, Elizabeth, the poor little car!"

Elizabeth looked past her with [illegible] eyes.

'Eleven o'clock' [illegible] wrote on a scrap of paper and left it in the chair where her evening bag was while she was dancing, for Anne wasn't letting him get a word with her all evening."

"But why? Are you trying to tell me that Barney was in love with Elizabeth and was going to marry Anne?"

"I can't answer for who he loved —I'm thinkin' he took that secret with him. But it was Elizabeth he wanted to marry—maybe it was for love, maybe he had his own reasons."

"Then what happened?"

vacious, pretty wife of 21 who became enraged at her husband because he refused to attend a bridge party and beat him to death with a claw hammer.

The husband, Thomas Edward West, 26, was killed at Perry, O., in December, 1927. Velma received a life sentence.

Only Monday, Superintendent Marguerite Reilley of the reformatory at Marysville said "She (Velma) can't keep hidden forever" and scorned the idea she would return of her own accord, although the fugitive slayer left a note explaining:

"I must have one little adventure in this dull life of mine," and assured the superintendent "If this should in any way cause you trouble I shall come back immediately."

Jailed here Velma said after "seven years the board of pardons told me it was useless for me to seek my release any more." Ever since then I've been looking for a chance to escape.

"I didn't get along well at the reformatory under an old administration and spent thirteen and a half months in solitary confinement. The new matron, however, treated me well and made me a trusty."

Leonora Leach of Gallipolis is in solitary confinement at the reformatory for aiding in the escape.

Mrs. Reilley, who had expressed surprise at absence of definite clues during the long search, said at Marysville last night she was satisfied the captured women were Velma and Mary Ellen Richards and that as soon as identification was positive she would send officers to return them.

KIDNAP VICTIM RESTING AFTER TRYING ORDEAL

me untold misery knowing that she was worrying about my fate.

"I want to get out of here as soon as possible and return to my wife and child in the United States."

The police confined most of their questions to getting descriptions of the kidnapers. Goldner said he had pledged himself before his release not to disclose the identities of his abductors or their whereabouts.

A physician examined Goldner and advised him to stay in bed for a few days. The doctor said he had intestinal ulcers and was exhausted.

"We are staying here until my son is okay," said the elder Goldner. "I am hoping to return to the United States on the Bremen from Germany August 11."

The father said his son and their companion on the trip to the Holy Land, the Rev. Clifford Moore of Akron, [illegible] sail on the Staatendam from the Netherlands arriving at New York August 22.

Young Goldner knew nothing of the frantic efforts to secure his release or of the attention directed to the bizarre kidnaping in the Moab hills. With his captors he had lived the life of a Bedouin, changing headquarters each morning and evening, for the kidnapers feared their prize might be hijacked by a stronger band.

Although exhausted and suffering from illness as a result of eating tribal food, Goldner said on his return to the Holy City last night that his captors "treated me fine, but there was once or twice when things came to a close shave and I thought the end was near."

Both father and son were taken captive by the band, but the father was released to arrange a ransom. The younger Goldner declared last night that "when my father left me I thought I was never going to see him again."

The band prowled through hilly country near Hebron, always on the alert and with their captive under heavy guard, the father related today.

When news reached the band that negotiators were anxious to talk terms with them, the rebel leader delegated five men to carry out negotiations but swore them to secrecy about the location of various hideaways and any other details, except that Goldner was well.

By desert grapevine the news leaked out that the band had a rich asset in Goldner, and the sheik feared an attack by a larger and better-armed raiding party.

For two days, while the captive stumbled with his captors over rocky wastes, no contact with his father and friends was made.

Young Goldner knew little about the negotiations when they did start. Every now and then they would be broken off and intermediaries would return to the main band for a long council around a flickering fire.

Meanwhile, United States Consul George Wadsworth and A. L. Miller, Y. M. C. A. secretary, directed negotiations from Jerusalem through religious dignitaries and civilians who understood the Arabs. From the first Wadsworth had been given assurance that British troops would stay out of the case until they were asked for.

STATES WHOLE BUNCH ENJOYED 'DEDUCTS' CASH

gestions to him instead of "running to the newspapers with them."

Long charged Tugwell once got $2,500 extra a year as highway chairman from the 5 per cent political contributions of state employes and Tugwell, denying the assertion, countered that Long once said he was given $400 per month from the so-called "deducts" fund.

Long said this money was given to him to care for political expenses in the 1936 campaign and expressed the hope Tugwell would end the feud and submit suggestions and criticism to him personally instead of "running to the newspapers with them."

"I need all the help and cooperation I can get from the state cabinet at this time," the governor said.

John O. Rogge, assistant United States attorney general in charge of the justice department's criminal division, headed back to Louisiana to intensify the federal inquiries.

Rogge, the justice department's ace criminal prosecutor, said in Washington he was augmenting his Louisiana staff to study alleged violations of laws pertaining to WPA, mail fraud, income taxes and hot oil.

There are now some 50 federal investigators in the field in Louisiana. Rogge said three justice department lawyers, Harold Rosewald, Alfred B. Tetom and Floyd M. Rett, would leave in a few days for Louisiana.

President Roosevelt, at his press conference, said he had not discussed the Louisiana situation with Attorney General Murphy and did not care to comment on conditions in Louisiana because he did not know enough about them.

At an L. S. U. alumni meeting in Port Allen last night acting Vice-President Troy H. Middleton of L. S. U. said the $13,500,000 building program at the school would end with completion of the work now under way. He added that student jobs would be reduced next session.

"We don't have the money and we're not running to the legislature to ask for it," he said.

T. H. Harris, state superintendent of education, announced periodic audits would be made henceforth of athletic departments and bookstores at colleges under the board's supervision.

The citizens' voluntary committee, organized in New Orleans, prepared to hold a state-wide meeting in Alexandria tomorrow to name an attorney they hope the governor will ask to assist the attorney general in a complete investigation of Louisiana affairs.

A new angle was added to the investigation of Louisiana's $100,000,000 a year oil business, fourth largest of any state, when Harvey G. Fields, United States district attorney of the western Louisiana district, said a special grand jury might be summoned at Shreveport to investigate "hot oil" complaints.

"A major oil scandal may be uncovered in north Louisiana before the investigation is concluded," he said.

A grand jury of the eastern district federal court is now investigating alleged violations of federal oil laws in south Louisiana.

State Senator Ernest S. Clements, close friend of Governor Long, took charge of the state department of conservation yesterday. He was appointed to replace the resigned William G. Rankin, who was called before the grand jury yesterday.

"We're going to do the best job we know how," he said, "honestly, safely and to the best interests of the people of this state."

Tugwell, in a statement issued yesterday, said he had asked State Banking Commissioner J. S. Brock, ex-officio debt moratorium commissioner, for a list showing names of legislators employed on the moratorium commission but the request had been refused on the ground the payroll was secret.

"Think of it," Tugwell asserted. "An elected official and treasurer of the state cannot ascertain the names and salaries of public officials carried on the payroll of a state department.

"I am sure that Governor Long, in his crashing crusade for honest government, will order Mr. Brock to furnish me with the information that I have requested. If not, I propose to take such steps as are necessary to see the payrolls of that department. I trust that Governor Long will not be as reluctant about this matter as he was with respect to the removal of Rankin from the conservation department."

Tugwell indicated he would go to the courts for authority to inspect the moratorium commission payrolls unless permission was granted shortly.

The indictments issued against Abernathy and Kilpatrick charged that:

1. On December 4, 1936, the Standard Office Supply company, Inc., sold the Louisiana State university library tables and one light oak table for $132.09.

2. On December 19, 1939, steel shelving for the office of the dean of the law school, $149.48.

3. On May 29, 1939, equipment for the commerce building, $11,730.

4. On June 25, 1937, 400 chairs and 400 table armchairs, $3,545.52.

5. On May 4, 1938, four files, 70 window shades, one Frigidaire type cooler, two compressors, kitchen china, 85 chairs, 15 student tables, two typewriter tables, one cafeteria counter, $3,840.44.

6. On August 11, 1937, one card catalog, two bookcases, 64 chairs, 64 desks, 12 teachers' desks, 200 arm walnut desks, 7 swivel chairs, 1 typewriter desk, 2 tables, 7 desks, 200 tablet armchairs, 40 book desks, total of $5,706.63.

7. On August 20, 1936, tables and chairs and other office equipment, $770.18.

8. On December 9, 1936, 600 mahogany chairs, 140 stools, 200 tablet arm chairs, six desks, total $4,161.60.

9. On May 16, 1939, for Northeast Center at Monroe, equipment, total of $9,231.05.

10. On August 28, 1936, 64 chairs, 40 tables, one bookcase, total value of $646.15.

Governor Long in his "de-ducts" statement in reply to Tugwell said:

"During the last state campaign we were everyone elected and financed practically out of 5 per cent money. Mr. Tugwell's pictures, my pictures, the whole state ticket's pictures, the loudspeakers, circulars and dodgers announcing the speaking dates for everyone in that campaign, with the exception of Senator Allen J. Ellender, were financed, as far as I know, out of the five per cent money.

"John S. Patton and myself were on the state payroll. Mr. Tugwell had his usual highway chauffeur driving him. Patton, Ellender and myself campaigned in my little one-seated Ford coupe, and I did practically all the driving myself. I admit without hesitation that I was furnished expense money out of the 5 per cent. Also, for campaigns in the second primary of 1936, for the constitutional amendment fight in the fall of 1936. I might say that some months it ran considerably over $400 a month. As far as my income tax is concerned, if Mr. Tugwell is worried about that, he can stop right now."

Long said he would resign from the governorship if he could not prove that "de-ducts" were collected prior to 1935.

"Mr. Tugwell said that deducts were only collected in the highway commission during the last year he was in office, 1935," Long said.

"It will be remembered that there was a lot of talk about 5 per cent collections in 1932, that this was the chief topic of discussion."

addition to the other witnesses. The board recently dismissed Dr. Harvey Dillon for "the good of the institution." Members of the board are J. Lloyd Warren, president; S. L. Digby and George Tidwell. Mr. Warren also is president of the Ouachita parish police jury.

In his letter to Judges Garrett and Shell, Senator Noe charged L. T. I. property had been converted to personal use and urged the calling of the special session to make proper investigation of his charges. The letter said Mr. Noe had "in my possession as a result of personal investigation" written statements "of responsible persons" charging "specific acts."

Following his removal as superintendent of the institution, Dr. Dillon went to Baton Rouge for a conference with Governor Earl K. Long, promising to have "plenty to say" when he returned to Monroe. Governor Long announced that he would uphold the decision of the board to discharge Dr. Dillon. The ousted superintendent later returned to Monroe and refused to comment on the reasons for the action, merely wishing his successor well in his new position.

A court attache expressed the opinion this morning that the grand jury investigation probably would last "three or four weeks." The session will be in charge of District Attorney Frank W. Hawthorne, assisted by George Lester.

Olan H. Black, scout executive, who has been teaching a course in youth leadership at the Louisiana Tech summer session, said Wednesday 30 persons had received credit in the college for the course. The scout leader completed the course last week and recently turned his record of the course over to the Tech registrar.

The class consisted of 14 men and 16 women and was taught in 10 daily three-hour sessions at the school in Ruston. Mr. Black said the men who took the course also would receive credit in the program in scout leadership of the Ouachita Valley council. The leadership course dealt with youth psychology, problems facing youth today, a contrast of American and European youth programs and other problems dealing with the leadership and development of youth.

Mr. Black has received a letter from Dr. Rodney Cline, director of the summer school at the Ruston institution, congratulating him on his handling of the course and expressing the hope that the course will be given next summer.

ered with sores, scratches and insect bites, but his first thought was to notify his distraught parents.

Mrs. Fendler, "the happiest mother in the world" to hear her son's voice again, waited impatiently to see her boy, perhaps today.

Her husband was so overcome when Donn telephoned him last night that he could only choke out the words: "I love you."

Donn wandered away from his father and his twin brother, Henry, in a thick cloud atop the mile-high mountain a week ago Monday. After missing his father, he told the McMoarns, he started down the trail to find him but fell into a hole, scrambled out and wandered into the trackless tangle of underbrush.

Aimlessly, he wandered, losing all track of time, until he reached a stream—Wossataquoik.

"I followed downstream until I came to a telephone line. Then I followed that until I saw the river and the camps."

After his clothing was ripped away, even his underclothing and his shoes, he wore an old burlap sack he found in the forest and once he stumbled across an abandoned hut, where he found a bedspread which he took along to use as a blanket.

"I don't know whether it was stealing or not," said Donn.

Not once did he lose his courage; he just couldn't. Rain wet his matches and he tried vainly to put his Boy Scout training to use by making fire with sticks and stones. He saw two bears—"one of them so close I could have touched him."

When finally he reached the telephone line, he told McMoarn he was so tired that:

"If I'd lain down just once again, I think it would have been the last time. I never could have got back on my feet."

FEDERAL COURT REJECTS CLAIM OF GOVERNMENT

sale or conduct of their practice. * * * It is argued that these cases have drawn medical practice within the orbit of trade.

"But those cases are beside the point. They do not involve any question as to whether medicine is a trade. They accept the universal understanding of it as a profession.

"At most, such cases serve only to illustrate the development of a legal doctrine, having its origin in contracts concerning tradesmen, which became known as the doctrine 'against restraint of trade,' and which in course of time was extended and applied to agreements by doctors respecting their professional practice.

"The demurrers raise basic objections to the indictment. Of first importance is the contention that none of the alleged restraints has reference to a trade; that section three comprehends only those occupations in commercial life carried on in the marts of trade activity; therefore, that the medical profession and the businesses of the (Group Health) association and hospitals do not constitute 'trade' within the purview of the statute.

"Against this contention the government's position is that all who are occupied in any activity where they supply money's worth for full money payment are engaged in trade; that section three does cover all such activities; therefore, that the practice of medicine and the business of the association and hospitals do fall within the scope of the state."

The indictment had declared that the defendants "combined and conspired" to restrain trade by seeking to prevent Group Health from arranging for medical care and hospitalization, by restraining the organization from "obtaining by cooperative efforts" adequate medical care for its members, by "restraining the doctors serving on the medical staff of Group Health association, Inc., in the pursuit of their callings," by restraining other doctors from serving it, and by "restraining the Washington hospitals in the business of operating such hospitals."

The grand jury had charged that the organizations and physicians agreed to forbid Group Health doctors to practice in Washington hospitals, had denied consultations to Group Health physicians, and had threatened to expel members of the Group Health staff from the medical societies.

Group Health, Inc., was organized originally by working in the Home Owners Loan corporation, a federal agency, with a loan of $37,000 from the government. It later spread to other government agencies, following repayment of the loan.

Counsel for the doctors had contended their activities could not be governed by the anti-trust law, that they were engaged in a "learned profession" rather than a trade.

On December 20, 1938, a District of Columbia grand jury, acting on evidence presented by the justice department, indicted the A. M. A., the Medical Society of the District of Columbia, the Washington Academy of Surgery, the Harris County, Texas, Medical society, and 21 individual physicians for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

These organizations and individuals, the indictment read, were "engaged in a continuing combination and conspiracy in restraint" of trade in hampering the activities of Group Health Association, Inc., of the District of Columbia, an organization established in 1937 to hire physicians and nurses and provide hospital care on a cooperative basis to government employes.

Defense attorneys had contended that all of their clients' activities were directed solely at the maintenance of the ethics and standards of the profession.

The individual physicians who had been indicted included a group of Washington doctors and these A. M. A. officers: Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the association's journal; Dr. Olin West, secretary and general manager; Dr. William Cutter, secretary of the council on medical education; Dr. William C. Woodward, director of the bureau of legal medicine and legislation; and Dr. Roscoe G. Leland, director of the bureau of medical economics.

The Harris County, Tex., medical society was included in the indictment because, it was charged, it brought acton with the A. M. A. for the expulsion of Dr. Raymond Selders, a Group Health surgeon. The expulsion action later was dropped.

However, in our efforts to correct abuses and evil practices and to solve the many difficult problems which face us now, we should proceed, in my opinion with firmness, but at the same time in a calm and orderly, rather than a revolutionary, manner."

40 BOYS, GIRLS OF BAPTIST HOME AWAY

Three groups of children from the Louisiana Baptist Children's home, comprising a total of about 40 boys and girls, left Saturday morning for a trip through the state on which they will give numerous programs.

One group was headed by Superintendent B. F. Wallace; the second group was in charge of Rev. L. A. Materne; while the third was composed of Boy Scouts and was in charge of their scoutmaster.

The three groups will return home on August 7. During their absence, there are scarcely 100 boys and girls remaining at the local institution.

What [illegible] is mostly negative knowledge. Long ago the myth of Mars was exploded, a myth begun by inventing explanations for the curious "canals" seen by some astronomers and doubted by others. It is a reasonable certainty of science that there is no human life, as we know it, on the red planet. But it appears that the uninformed multitude likes the legend of supermen on Mars, made in our image, but more so, is loath to take the word of science that it isn't so.

A cautious scientist does not say that life is impossible on other planets. What is said is that our kind of life cannot exist there. But all life on this earth exists within amazingly narrow limits. It exists in an infinitesimal skin of air, soil and water around the globe, inside a brief scale of tolerable temperatures and by grace of a few essential elements. And that is the only kind of life we know.

Living creatures, perhaps reasonable creatures, may dwell on the pinkish planet which shines now in the sky more brightly than the giant suns that are the stars. But these neighbors of ours, if any, are not our sort of people.

The Eternal Gold Brick

The more it changes, observed the acute Frenchman, the more it is the same thing.

In the springtime of American progress westward, a standard comic figure was the fellow who bought the gold brick. He was right alongside the yokel who bought Brooklyn bridge.

But he isn't dead. Gold brick schemes have extracted at least $19,500, perhaps more, from gullible Americans in the past year, Sheriff Chris Fox of El Paso reports.

Alwys there is a new twist to the gold brick scheme to make it plausible. This time it is "Yaqui gold" awaiting someone to finance its illegal transport and sale in the United States. Michigan and Iowa chance-takers are the ones reported having bitten on this one only to find that there wasn't any gold at the foot of their Mexican rainbow.

There is no reason at all to doubt that as long as men love gold there will always be some who hope to get it by schemes like this, and who will wind up as empty of pocket as they are of mind.

They say youth is in revolt, but what of it? It was in our time, too, but it calmed down when it took charge.

VISITING NOTES

Don't take along a supply of candy. Sticky hands are no recommendation to hostesses. Many mothers do not allow their children to have candy between meals and if they do they regulate the amount and the quality and the kind. No hostess likes to say "No, no," to candy that is offered by a guest, but the hostess can and usually will try to see that the guest does not repeat the visit.

Don't take the dog along. Maybe the hostess has a dog. No dog of any spirit allows another dog on the place without protest and a dog fight is no card of admission to a friend's home. Then, too, a dog that is perfectly kind and gentle with its own children will turn on strangers if hard pressed, and that is likely when children get together. Leave the dog at home.

Don't fill up the car with toys. They make trouble always. They are strewn about the place and it is likely there are enough of them in the house already. The hostess can well do without the confusion the additions bring. A doll, one ball, soft, ought to be the limit, and none at all is better.

Don't dress the children in new clothes. Always make sure that the children's feet are comfortable in well-worn shoes. New clothes, new shoes, new hats, are sources of pain and grief. Let them wear simple, familiar clothes about which there can be no concern.

Don't take a fretful ailing child to visit. Leave him home, and better yet, stay home with him. Likely enough he is sick. A child with a cold, of course, never goes visiting. Wait until he is in good shape, when there is no threat of illness, or bad temper, which is the same thing.

If you are unfortunate enough to have a child who delights in climbing on furniture and bouncing on it, stay at home until he has learned his error. Children's ways are always exaggerated in strange surroundings. One must expect something short of perfection always but behavior that is exaggerated already simply won't do on a visit.

Train children for visiting. Practice the accepted etiquette at home as a game, and in daily practice, and hope for the best. But keep the prohibitions in mind if you want to keep your friends.

For help in training your children to behave when visiting or being visited, consult Angelo Patri's booklet, "The Child and Other People," which considers this and other problems of a child's social adjustment. Send for it, enclosing ten cents. Address Angelo Patri, care the Monroe News-Star, Postoffice Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Easy Come, Easy Go

In all this development there looms, however, a hazard which the psychologist sees particularly. As we know, many a child of wealthy parents is slower in its development than the children of the poor because everything is done for it. It may actually be slow in learning to speak because its wants are anticipated and it never has to ask for anything. It never learns the value of money because it can spend without counting. The life of the child is repeated in the life of the adult and the life of the adult is repeated in the life of the nation. It is dangerous for a nation to lose sight of the necessity of accounting for money. It is hazardous for adults to have too much done for them. History shows again and again the deterioration of human moral fiber under such circumstances.

Physicians more than any other group in our nation know the hazards of treating human beings as if they were inanimate mechanisms. Thus they would say to the state:

"Those activities which the individual cannot conduct for himself, let the state undertake. If our people are too stupid to provide against dependency in old age or because of unemployment, let the state force them to do so. But let them, as much as possible, be responsible to and for themselves."

Already the dangers of too great centralization of complete bookkeeping and responsibility for handling of funds in Washington are beginning to [illegible]

Entrance of the Standard Oil company into the Urania oil prospecting territory was the principal development of interest for that section during the week. The Standard purchased a block of 200 acres from the Urania Petroleum company, which has large holdings near Urania, according to Anthony Gibbon, local manager of the Urania company's interests. The price was $9,000.

The local postoffice has been in receipt of several calls for airplane stamps but thus far this new issue has not been received in Monroe. Any who wish to send letters to Frisco can do so by plane by appending the usual postage and eight cents for each additional zone. Ordinary stamps will suffice but the envelope must specify "Airplane Delivery" by written words.

By winning the banner for excellence of service for the sixth time the local American Railway Express company has made a remarkable record for itself, according to news to this effect which was received here today. This division holds the high record for the United States. If the local office wins another banner, at the close of the next quarter, they will have right to retain the banner permanently.

"Look out for Botulism," this strangely technical and more or less foreboding order, came to Dr. John Schrieber, director of the local health unit, from Dr. Oscar Dowling of the state board of health at New Orleans. This disease is prevalent in some parts of the country in canned goods, such as olives, sausage packed in cans, spinach, and in any food of high protein value. The trouble now breaking out is located largely in Wyoming and is found in California olives principally.

More than 90 per cent of all cases occur on the face. The skin becomes hot, swollen and glistening. As the redness spreads the center becomes pale and less swollen. If the eyelids are attacked they become enormously swollen so that the eyes are shut. Frequently if the condition spreads beyond the ear it will reach the hairline and then stop.

Because of the general infection there may be chills and illness with headache, dizziness and vomiting. Sometimes there is severe itching in connection with the swelling of the skin. Occasionally there is sore throat. The fever may go from 103 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit.

Gradually, as the patient improves, the temperature drops, the skin becomes white and then there is peeling of a flaky material. In certain instances erysipelas may be so severe as to produce death.

SUFFERS LEG INJURY

Joe Kalil, 18, of 3906 DeSiard street, suffered a badly cut right leg yesterday afternoon when hit by the blade of a mowing machine. Kalil said he was watching a man cut grass on the Sherrouse place on DeSiard road, and had pulled a limb of a tree out of the way so that the machine could pass under. He said he didn't realize he was standing where the blade would reach him as it came through the grass. A deep gash was cut in his leg just above the instep. Jimmie Fidler In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 26.—Offhand, I can't think of a more amusing or pungent comment on the Hollywood "star system" than the one offered by Paramount's current offering, "Beau Geste." Three actors—Gary Cooper, Ray Milland and Robert Preston—receive star billing. All advertising copy displays their names in poster-sized type. They will be the ones featured in the lobby displays and in the marquee lights.

Yet the real star of the picture is Brian Donlevy, who is barely mentioned as a member of the supporting cast. As the villainous Sergeant Markoff he dominates the entire picture. He plays in at least seven-tenths of the scenes. His is the only character [illegible] worthy of mention. The [illegible] Cooper, Milland and particularly Preston have [illegible] walk through his [illegible] that the average fan [illegible] leaving the theater [illegible] remember just one personality, Donlevy.

Unlike most of his conferees, Mr. Cohn [illegible] all personal publicity, arguing that not he, but his pictures need the [illegible] . . . Ida Lupino, composer. Despite its complications, the life of a strip-tease dancer is by no means as glamorous as it appears. She must be at the theater from noon until 11:30 p. m. on weekdays and until 2:30 p. m. on Saturdays. As a result, her time off for recreation is limited to supper and midnight movies.

Her dates, curiously enough, are few and far between. Male performers in the theater where she happens to work, hesitate to ask a girl out who is earning two or three times their salary. Men outside the profession are not too easily met, or not met at all, and so Margie's chief hobby is going home and making and remaking her bed, hospital corners down.

Backstage, Margie is even more popular than she is out front. She is a daily participant in the stagehands' card game and is the rummy champion of the Atlantic seaboard. She plays a canny hand of stud poker, too.

Take-'Em-Offs Cost Big Dough

The most important part of a disrobing queen's possessions is what she takes off—her wardrobe. Margie's costumes are made by one of the most expensive and ingenious designers of New York, a gentleman named Billy Livingstone. She lends them to the lesser artists to copy at a fraction of what she pays for them.

For a four-star simulation of pandemonium, I recommend a visit to her dressing room between stage appearances. One evening found three members of the Chicago Cubs and a stagehand playing poker with her, two chorus girls who dropped in for a loan between engagements, a charity official with a request that she sell raffle tickets in Times Square, an ambassador from the Amusement Zone of the fair with a contract which her manager ruled out, three cosmetics saleswomen and a pianist.

TRIO ARRIVES IN CITY AWHEEL

New Jersey Lads Ride Bicycles To Monroe On Way To West Coast

Well bronzed after a 20-day bicycle trip which was started July 5 at Newark, N. J., three lads each 20 years of age, wheeled into Monroe late Tuesday afternoon. They were Paul Turnell, Vernard McArdle and James Guerin. They spent the night in one of the fire stations and early Wednesday wheeled out of town Shreveport-bound. They average 90 miles a day on their wheels and since leaving home they have been approximately 1,500 miles.

The lads made their way south, visiting Washington, Richmond, Columbia, Augusta, Columbus, Macon, Selma, Jackson, Vicksburg and on into Monroe. They carry blankets which they use to sleep on at night when they fail to reach a city. Meals they purchase in the cities and towns visited.

The plan of financing is the sale of postal cards which contain their pictures and a short sketch of their trip.

This was their first time to visit the southland and the boys were delighted with the things they saw and with the courtesy extended. They specially praised Monroe and said that they found here the best, most hospitable citizens that they had encountered since they left home.

The lads plan to visit Mexico, probably penetrating as far south as Mexico City. Then they will go to Los Angeles and to San Francisco and the World's fair. They plan to visit the far northwest and also Canada. They expect to arrive home in time to eat Thanksgiving turkey.

The trip has proved highly satisfactory thus far, the lads asserted, with the best of [illegible] all the way and [illegible] to mar the progress of the journey. They say that it is quite easy to make 12 miles an hour and that 90 miles a day is by no means a tax on their strength. Their muscles are as hard as [illegible], their nerves steady and they looked the picture of robust health when they paid their respects to the staff at the News-Star—World early Wednesday morning.

'LOST COLONY' DATA IS FOUND

Translation Of 13 Stone Slabs Apparently Records Burial Of 64

GAINESVILLE, Ga., July 26.—(AP)—Dr. H. J. Pearce, president of Brenau college, asserted today discovery and translation of 13 stone slabs apparently recording the burial of 64 members of the famed "lost colony" of Roanoke island may go far in solving what he called "mystery No. 1 of American history."

The educator and his son, Dr. H. J. Pearce, Jr., a historian at Emory university in Atlanta, announced yesterday the finding of the stones on the Saluda river near Greenville, S. C., which purport to unfold the tragedy baffling colonists settled at Sir Walter Raleigh's behest in 1587.

The educators emphasized that no claims were being made as to the authenticity of stones at present. "They are still under investigation," they said.

But if the stones do prove to be genuine, Dr. Pearce declared, "some commonly accepted facts in American history must be discarded."

The Pearces laboriously deciphered the carved lettering in ancient English, checked the messages with writing of the period and on historical facts.

The stone-told story indicates, the historians said, that the colonists wandered about 350 miles southwest from the North Carolina coast, established a grave yard and a camp or stockade on a hilltop near the Saluda river and remained there at least two years.

Sixty-four of the harassed Englishmen were buried at the Saluda site and in 1591—the stones bear dates of 1589, 1590 and 1591—17 of the remaining 24 were massacred by Indians. The seven survivors wandered still further southwestward.

Acquisition of 12 of these stones followed discovery several weeks ago of a granite piece presumably carrying a message from Eleanor Dare to her father which listed the 17 massacre victims, including her daughter, Virginia, and her husband, Ananias. Virginia Dare is generally believed to be the first white child born in America.

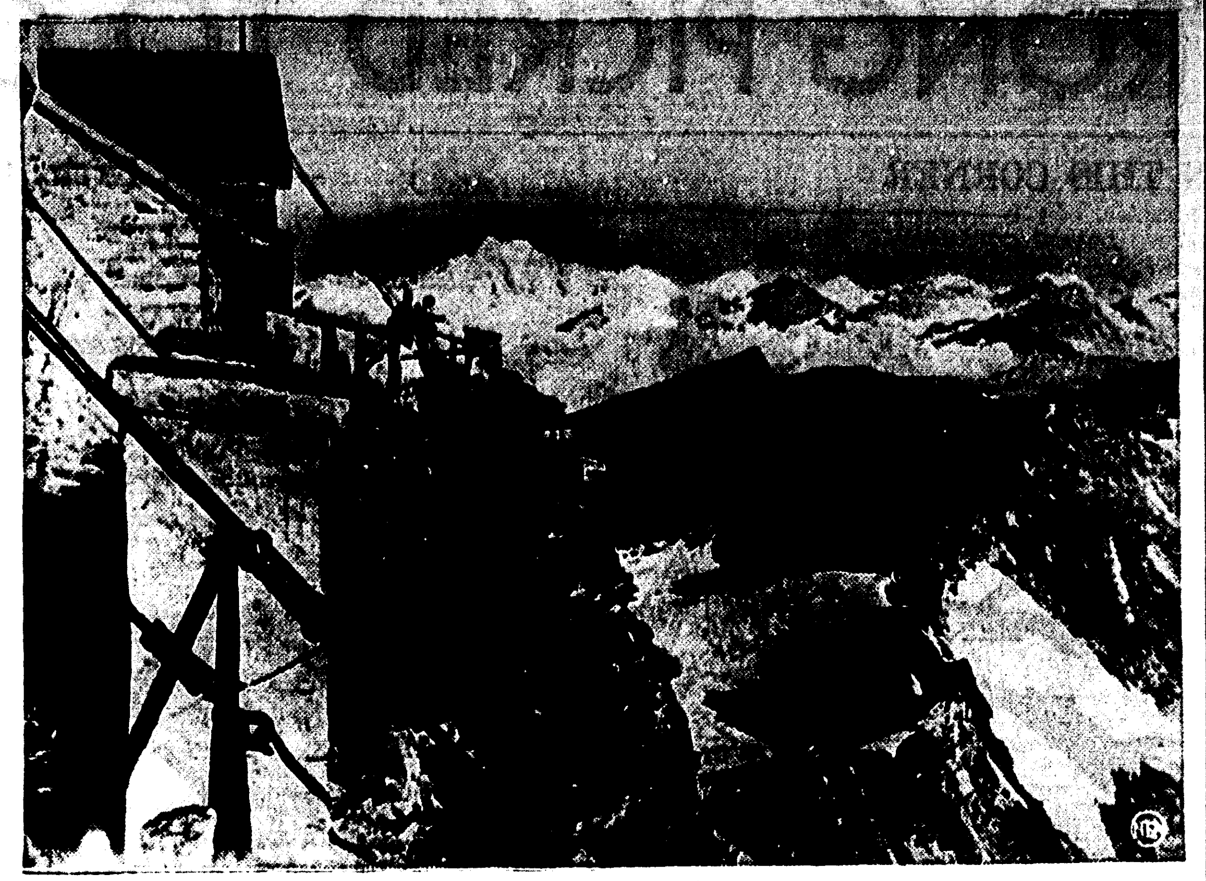
In 1937 a tourist stumbled upon a stone signed "E. W. D." conveying news of the massacre. It was this discovery that set off the search for other signs of the lost colony.

MRS. GRAYSON'S CONDITION BETTER

The condition of Mrs. Violet Grayson, Monroe woman who took poison Tuesday afternoon, was reported slightly improved Wednesday morning. However, attending physicians said her condition would remain "precarious for several days."

Mrs. Grayson was taken to St. Francis sanitarium about 4 p.m. Tuesday after having been found in the women's rest room of the parish courthouse. She is said to have taken poison on two occasions, once at her home about 1 p.m. Tuesday and again in a West Monroe restaurant about 3 p.m. Family troubles were said to have been the cause of Mrs. Grayson's attempt to take her life.

'MINORITY PROBLEM'



Citizens of North Tyrol, which is in Germany, can look from this refuge house atop the Glocker-Alps straight into Italy—where some 200,000 fellow-Tyrolese face expulsion by Italy. South Tyrol, Austrian before the World war, went to Italy by treaty, but the inhabitants never became Italianized. Their plight spotlights the Rome-Berlin allies' own "minority problem," with Tyrolese on the German side openly flaunting Nazi prohibitions against demonstrations of sympathy for the Italian-Tyrolese.

Corporal LeBlanc Tells Of 170,000 Miles Of Travel In Marine Corps

Corporal John A. LeBlanc, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. LeBlanc, 306 Stone avenue, is home on a furlough after having served three and one-half years of a four-year enlistment in the marine corps. He has an interesting tale to tell of his career at sea during which he traveled 156,000 knots or approximately 170,000 miles. His most interesting experience was the last big assignment of his ship, the U. S. S. Astoria, which conveyed the ashes of the late Japanese Ambassador Saito to Japan.

The steamship left March 18 with all due ceremony from Annapolis, Md., with the ashes of the former ambassador aboard. It was placed in a special part of the ship where an attendant was in charge constantly, incense was kept burning and floral offerings were extremely elaborate.

The route of the ship was through the Panama canal, by way of Honolulu to Japan. A formal ceremony was held when the ashes were delivered from the ship and a series of formal memorial affairs were held by the Japanese government to honor the memory of Saito. Ultimately the ashes were placed in a shrine with the great men of Japan.

The corporal declared that the Japanese people seemed to vie with each other in courtesies extended to the Americans. There were sightseeing trips made in and about the city of Tokyo. The imperial palace was visited and respects paid to the emperor. Many beautiful shrines were visited for shrines are a large part of Japanese life. A special theatrical performance was given for the visitors at the International theater, the largest and best in the empire.

Everywhere the men went they were showered with presents, flags, books, phonograph records, and even some of the nation's prized dolls were presented to be brought home and treasured by the recipients.

The people were said to be warmhearted and readily responsive to the Americans. Everybody there seemed to be attired in uniform. All school boys wear uniforms. Girls do not attend public schools until they reach college, as their early education is obtained in private schools.

The marines were permitted to ride on all trains and buses free of charge and were admitted into the theaters at half price.

Hongkong was visited, where British officers entertained the men of the Astoria. Then the ship proceeded to Manila where there was a stay of six or seven days. At Guam, the Astoria pulled the United States army transport Grant off the rocks, where it had been for a day and a half. It took but 10 minutes to pull it off.

In the Pacific, near Midway island, an intensive search was made for the shipwrecked Richard Halliburton, who was last heard of in March. A total of 150,000 square miles was searched carefully, four planes going out every morning in this quest, but it proved fruitless.

The boat then went to Long Beach, Calif., and later to San Francisco, where the men saw the fair on Treasure island. Corporal LeBlanc then went to Seattle, Wash., where he remained four weeks. He participated in the northwest rifle matches at Tacoma, and won eight medals and two trophies.

The return was by bus and took exactly four days from Tacoma to Monroe.

Corporal LeBlanc is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish High school and attended Northeast Junior college one year before he enlisted. He has visited all the chief ports of the United States, those of the West Indies, Port of Trinidad, Peru, the Isle of Galapagos, Rio de Janeiro, Guam, Manila, South Indo China, Hawaii, Japan and China. Last year he visited [illegible] and the Aleutian islands and [illegible].

He will, when his furlough [illegible], be stationed in the east, and will [illegible] be on shipboard for the [illegible] months of his enlistment period. He stated that he was not sure as to his reenlistment.

Asked about the war in Japan and China, he declined to comment as he said that members of the marine corps are not permitted to make comments for obvious reasons.

LIQUOR FOES MEET IN JACKSON PARISH

JONESBORO, La., July 26.—(Special)—A mass meeting in the interest of the anti-liquor movement in Jackson parish, was held on the courthouse lawn July 23, at 2:30 p.m.

Dr. T. A. Dekle, who is parish chairman of the organization, presided. The addresses of the occasion were delivered by J. W. Cheatwood and Judge Barnett, both of Ruston.

Mr. Cheatwood gave some interesting phases of the battle waged against liquor in Lincoln parish. Judge Barnett cited figures to show that under existing conditions that a large percentage of children will become liquor addicts. He reminded that whiskey and beer are two different items to be considered and that each is a menace to be dealt with. In closing his remarks, he asked that there be no hard feelings or bitterness, however hard the battle.

A woman's anti-liquor organization is being formed to cooperate with the men and there will be a meeting of representatives from all wards at the Baptist church in Jonesboro, Thursday at 3 p.m.

Oddotorium: Herb Hash, one of the pitchers Minneapolis sold to the Red Sox yesterday, was a Christmas present from Tom Yawkey to Mike Kelly, Minneapolis owner. . . . Bob Moisant, pitcher for the Kankakee (Ill.) town nine, has been playing ball 20 of his 28 years and has box scores to prove it. . . . There is no such word as "biesbol" in the Spanish dictionary, but that's what the Mexicans call baseball. . . . The guy who thought it up should get an assist. . . . Jimmy Walkup, sold by Detroit to Toronto, left the majors with a 1.000 batting average. . . . He made a hit on his only appearance at the plate.

Ralph Brandon retired as manager of the Sioux Falls club of the Western league. . . . But he promised friends he'd catch just a few more games. . . . WHITE SOX WIN PITCHING DUEL OF SOUTHPAWS

'Lefty' Hinton Bests Jack Kraus; Each Team Limited To Six Hits

The Monroe White Sox won a left-handers' duel here last night to nose out the Helena Seaporters 2 to 1, in the third and final game of the series with the Arkansans. Helena took only one game of the series.

Hinton

Lawrence "Lefty" Hinton, the Sox's [illegible] portsider from [illegible], La., bested Jack Kraus, also a left hander, in a well pitched game. Each hurler allowed but six hits. [illegible] Hinton [illegible] Kraus in [illegible] departments [illegible] Hinton [illegible] five walked [illegible] Kraus [illegible]

[illegible] Hackney to Jones. McNulty was left stranded as Freddie Wiesler fouled out to Taylor.

Then [illegible] Jack Kraus bunted and went all the way to second on an error after Hinton [illegible] fielded the ball [illegible] to first. Rowe was hit by a pitched ball and McCollum sacrificed Kraus and Rowe up a base. But Rowe "went to sleep" and when Cashier grounded to Pruitt who threw him out at first, Rowe rushed in on Kraus at third and Kraus was forced at home.

The Seaporters scored their single inning and it was unearned. Cashier run after two were out in the first was safe at first when Hackney, who made a sensational stop of the Helena third baseman's hot grounder past second, threw low to first. Cashier went to third on Mel Hicks' single and scored on a passed ball.

The Sox soon tied the score. Bob Hill, first up for Monroe, singled into center field, stole second and scored on Johnny Conway's double into right field. Conway went to third on Taylor's single through the pitcher's box, but he was thrown out at the plate during an attempted double steal.

Hank Taylor came home with the winning run after only one was out in the sixth. Conway, first up for Monroe in the inning, was out when Hicks made a stellar one-handed running catch of his foul fly in front of the right field bleachers, but Taylor singled into right field. Murrell Jones got a "Texas leaguer" over second and Taylor raced toward third. Manager Blakeney, fielding Jones' hit, threw wild to third and Taylor raced on home. Jones took third on the error, but was left stranded as Hackney lined out to Wiesler, and Pruitt grounded out, Blakeney to Hicks.

THE UNKINDEST CUT OF ALL

Regardless of whether Mrs. Patricia Dean fogged a lamp at him or whether he got it by scraping his left arm against the corner of a glass top bedstand, here is the six-inch cut that caused Dizzy Dean to be sent home by the Chicago Cubs. Dr. John F. Davis, club physician, called it a superficial wound.

COMISKEY LEAVES CHISOX TO FAMILY

CHICAGO, July 26.—(AP)—The name of Comiskey, which for two generations helped build the sport—will continue in baseball.

Filing of the will of J. Louis Comiskey, who died a week ago, disclosed that the Chicago White Sox baseball club was left to the widow and three children, with its affairs to be controlled and directed by the First National bank of Chicago.

All the shares in the ball club, except 50, were owned by Comiskey, whose father, Charles A. Comiskey, founded the team almost 40 years ago after a brilliant playing-managing career. These shares numbered 7,450, at a par value of $100 each. The remaining 50 shares are held by Harry Grabiner, vice-president and secretary of the team.

Comiskey bequeathed half of his shares to his widow, Mrs. Grace Comiskey, to be held in trust, with the other half to be held in three separate trust estates for the equal benefit of the three children, Charles A. Comiskey, II, now 13 years old; Grace Lou, 18, and Dorothy, 22.

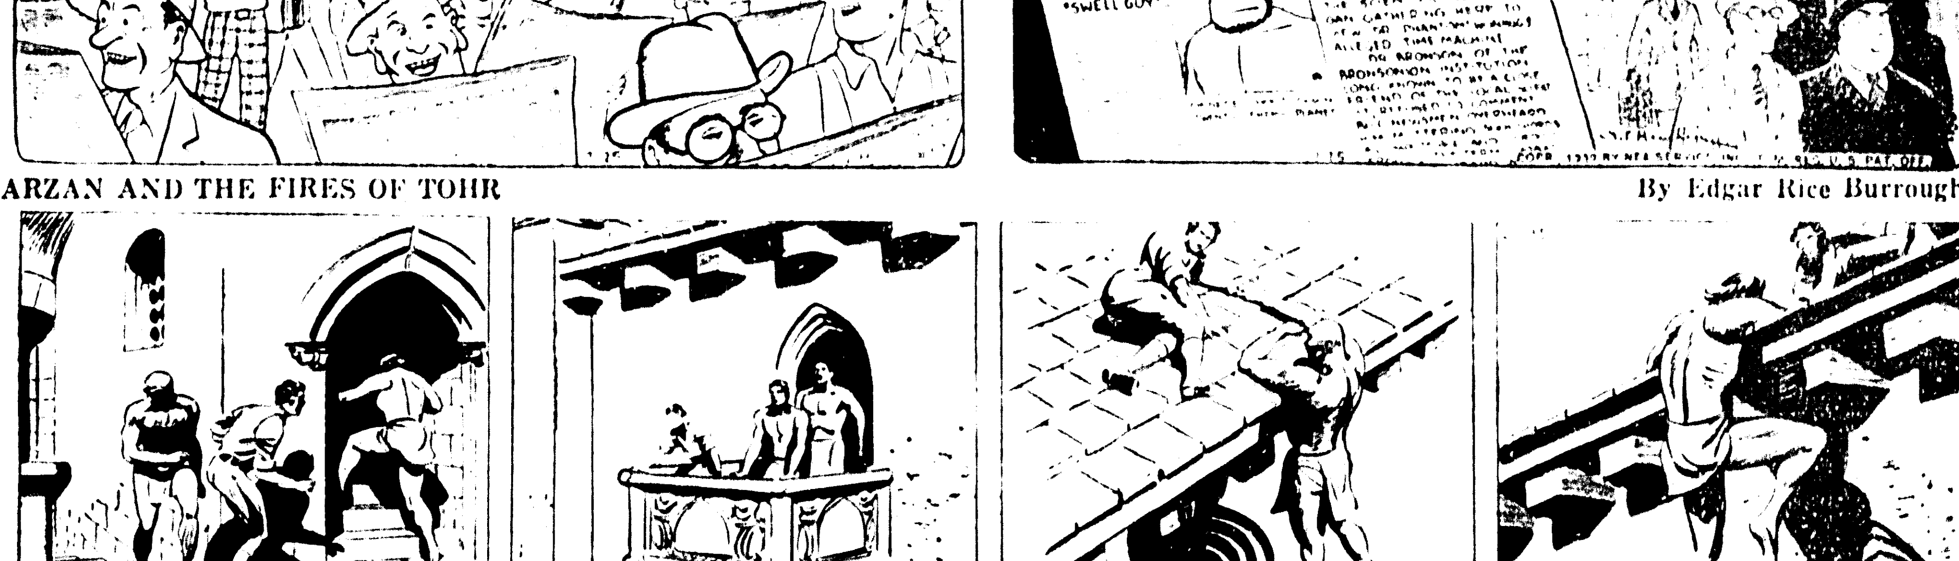
TARZAN AND THE FIRES OF TOHR

By Edgar Rice Burroughs



UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE, INC.
Rex Maxon

Hurrying footsteps clattered on the steps below. Tarzan frowned. The yellow giants were closing in. Like a cornered beast, the ape-man hastily surveyed his surroundings for a means of escape. There! That stairway! It might offer an exit—or lead to a trap!

Beckoning his companions to follow, he dashed boldly up the staircase. It opened, through a casement, onto a balcony. "Stumped!" muttered Perry. "We'd break our necks jumping to the ground, with those guards!"

The alert ape-man solved the problem quickly. Under his directions, Kailuk stood with back to the wall. O'Rourke climbed upon his shoulders, grasped the coping, and pulled himself to the roof. Next, the Rathorian giant stood on the mighty shoulders of Tarzan.

A second later, the ape-man stepped back, sprang lightly upward, clutched the coping and drew himself up, just as the crowd of pursuing Tohrians poured out of the casement onto the balcony. "Quick!" Tarzan urged, "they'll be up here in another moment!"

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, July 26 —(AP)—A last minute mark-up gripped the stock market today and at the close leading issues had gained fractions to around a point or more.

At the opening there was a mild effort to rally and leading issues piled up gains of fractions to around a point. Then selling developed to an extent advances were cut or turned into small retreats and movements became indecisive. Toward the finish the list moved ahead again.

Brokers found little in the news to account for the various fluctuations, ascribing them to the action of traders in switching here and there in an effort to find some solid front upon which to stand. Transfers were around 800,000 shares.

NEW YORK, July 26 —(AP)—The stock market tried for higher ground today but many of the leaders failed to make the grade.

Buying orders had piled up before the fairly active opening and prices advanced fractions to a point or more [illegible]. Toward the fourth hour [illegible] a good many minus signs.

Foreign markets were mixed. The Amsterdam bourse drifted a little lower while London and Paris appeared more optimistic. Bonds were narrowly uneven. Commodities pointed [illegible] grains and cotton up.

Stocks which slipped as selling developed included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Westinghouse Electric, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Goodyear and Anaconda.

Narrow were Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Eastman, United States Gypsum, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Consolidated Edison, Eastman, Union Carbide, Loft and Texas Corp.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE TENSAS BASIN LEVEE BOARD

Rayville, La., July 13, 1939.

The Board of Commissioners of the Tensas Basin Levee District met today in regular quarterly session with the following commissioners present: J. W. Summerlin, President, of Richland Parish; J. S. Rolfe, of Morehouse Parish; L. C. Nunn, of Caldwell Parish; D. W. Gibson, of Catahoula Parish; C. J. Grayson, of Franklin Parish; A. C. Monroe, of West Carroll Parish; and J. M. Whatley, of LaSalle Parish. Absent: W. L. Ethridge, of Ouachita Parish. There were seven commissioners present and a quorum.

There were also in attendance upon the meeting J. R. Adams, assistant state engineer, Murray Hudson, attorney for the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, of Monroe; and H. A. Mangham, secretary of the Board.

Upon motion of Commissioner Rolfe, seconded by Commissioner Nunn, and unanimously adopted by the Board, the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting was dispensed with and same were approved as published in the official journals of the Board.

Mr. Murray Hudson, of Monroe, attorney for the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, addressed the Board, protesting the levy of the tax or forced contribution, of Thirty ($30.00) Dollars per mile levied on railroad lines subject to levee taxation within the Tensas Basin Levee District, claiming that the levy was discriminatory and unfair to his client, the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, and gave as his opinion that the tax or forced contribution, of $30.00 per mile could not be legally levied until the Board had first levied the full amount of ad valorem levee tax permitted under the Constitution.

After a discussion of the matter by the commissioners it was decided to refer the matter of whether the Board had the legal right to levy a forced contribution before it had levied the full amount of ad valorem tax under the Constitution to the Attorney General, and ask for his opinion.

The following Resolution was offered by Commissioner Rolfe and seconded by Commissioner Gibson.

Be It Resolved by the Board of Commissioners of the Tensas Basin Levee District, in regular session convened, That the President of this Board and the Board of State Engineers be and they are hereby authorized and directed to advertise for sealed proposals and let contract for approximately One Thousand (1000) lineal feet of 18-inch corrugated steel pipe for use on the Ouachita River levees.

Adopted July 13th, 1939.

J. W. SUMMERLIN, President.

Attest:
H. A. MANGHAM, Secretary.

The above and foregoing Resolution was adopted by the following aye and nay vote: Ayes—Rolfe, Nunn, Gibson, Grayson, Monroe, Whatley and Summerlin; nays—none; absent—Ethridge.

Mr. J. R. Adams, assistant state engineer, addressed the Board, outlining the work of recently acquiring levee rights-of-way on the Arkansas and Mississippi Rivers, explaining that the sums paid for these rights-of-way on the Arkansas River would be refunded by the United States Government. He then informed the Board of the necessity of acquiring additional rights-of-way on the Mississippi River from Arkansas City to Little Bogg[illegible] Ba[illegible] and from Gaines Landing to Lina Landing.

The following Resolution was offered by Commissioner Nunn and seconded by Commissioner Rolfe.

Be It Resolved by the Board of Commissioners of the Tensas Basin Levee District, in regular session convened, That the President of this Board be and he is hereby [illegible] and instructed, with the approval of the Board of State Engineers of the State of Louisiana, to acquire the [illegible] rights-of-way for levee enlargement [illegible] being done by the United States Government from Arkansas City to Little Bogg[illegible] and from Gaines Landing [illegible] Landing [illegible] Desha and Chicot Counties, Arkansas.

Adopted July 13th, 1939.

J. W. SUMMERLIN, President.

Attest:
H. A. MANGHAM, Secretary.

The above and foregoing Resolution was adopted by the following aye and nay vote: Ayes—Rolfe, Nunn, Gibson, Grayson, Monroe, Whatley and Summerlin; nays—none; absent—Ethridge.

The following Resolution was offered by Commissioner Rolfe and seconded by Commissioner [illegible].

Be It Resolved by the Board of Commissioners of the Tensas Basin Levee District, in regular session convened, That the President of this Board and the Board of State Engineers be and are hereby authorized and directed to let contract to haul and spread gravel on roads on the levees where, in their discretion, it is found necessary for the protection of said levees of the District.

Adopted July 13th, 1939.

J. W. SUMMERLIN, President.

Attest:
H. A. MANGHAM, Secretary.

The above and foregoing Resolution was adopted by the following aye and nay vote: Ayes—Rolfe, Nunn, Gibson, Grayson, Monroe, Whatley and Summerlin; nays—none; absent—Ethridge.

The following Resolution was offered by Commissioner Rolfe and seconded by Commissioner Nunn.

Whereas, the Louisiana Highway Commission has [illegible] the [illegible] of locating and surveying a road to be constructed on Section Line between Sections 10 and 15 and Sections 11 and 14 of Township 21 N, R 8 E, in Ward 10 of Morehouse Parish, Louisiana, and

Whereas, the Tensas Basin Levee Board owns the following described land abutting the said Section Line, to-wit:

The NW¼ of NW¼ of Sec. 14 and the NE¼ of NE¼ of Sec. 15, T 22 N, R 8 E; and

Whereas, before the Highway Commission [illegible] let contract for the construction of roads a right-of-way must be secured therefore,

LITTLE HOPE FELT FOR RAIL AID BILL

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—House leaders abandoned hope today that congress would complete action at this session on general transportation legislation designed to help the railroads.

Representative Rayburn, the Democratic leader, said a joint committee would require a long time to reconcile differences between house and senate bills even after the former chamber completes debate.

Both measures are predicated on the idea that water carriers, like railroads and trucks, should be brought under federal regulation as a part of a uniform national transportation policy which President Roosevelt has said is desirable. The senate measure also would codify the interstate commerce act.

Rayburn and others said the house should pass the legislation by tonight. The only possibility of further delay, [illegible] would be a disposition by [illegible] to spend [illegible] amendments.

Chairman Lea, Democrat, California, of the house interstate commerce committee, said the waterways group had "loaded down" the bill with amendments.
